757 Accelerate Now Accepting Applications for its 2019 Cohort

Beginning May 1st through June 21st, 757 Accelerate will be accepting applications for its second cohort of early-stage companies. 757 Accelerate is a selective startup accelerator program providing founders with capital, connections and customers.

If accepted into 757 Accelerate, companies will receive $20,000 in startup capital and connections with customized mentors, investors, support services, working space and a lean startup education. The program also provides an intensive 3-month program to engage with customers, validate products, test business models and prepare for next-stage funding.

To be eligible, companies must have a committed, full-time founder, be solving a disruptive problem and providing a scalable solution with growth potential. Information about the application, as well as additional information about 757 Accelerate, can be found at https://757accelerate.org.
